

Accessing NetStorage while logged into a PC at the computer lab

by: Stanley Kan

You can only access and login to NetStorage from a computer on which you are NOT logged into the account that you are trying to access. For example: CEB212 account. If you are already logged into the account through the computer's login (a PC in CEB212 or CEB 309A), then you don't need to use NetStorage to store files on the H: drive. You can simply double click the My Computer from the desktop and go to the Network Drives section, and double click the icon titled with your username. This is your H: drive.
